The 2007 Big 7 All League Softball Team has been announced. Four players were unanimously selected by league coaches including outfielders Deandra Shirmer of Holton, Ashley Chance of Royal Valley and Maura Sheeley from ACCHS. The other unanimous pick was Hiawatha senior Zana Manche, who joined Carlene McManigal of Holton as utility players.

League champion Holton had five athletes honored including first-team freshman pitcher Liz Dunn, infielder Jen Cordell, and honorable mention to Alicia Coverdale. Royal Valley had Courtney Barger earn first-team accolades on the infield, while Tiffany Burget and pitcher Donna Holthaus received honorable mention. Jeff West pitcher Moriah Storzum made first team while Kyane Storzum of the Lady Tigers was voted the league's top catcher, and Ally Scott and Beca Rodecap were recognized as infielders. Hiawatha infielder Nancy Harvalis was named first-team while Amanda Gunderson of the Redhawks was an honorable mention pitcher. ACCHS placed Megan Thompson on the first team infield, while honorable mention athletes Alisha Wallisch and Julie Westerman of the Lady Tigers complete the 2007 Big 7 softball list.
